DETAILED ACTION

Specification

1. The claims are objected to because they include reference characters which are not enclosed within parentheses.

Reference characters corresponding to elements recited in the detailed description of the drawings and used in conjunction with the recitation of the same element or group of elements in the claims should be enclosed within parentheses so as to avoid confusion with other numbers or characters which may appear in the claims. See MPEP § 608.01(m).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

3. Claims 3-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. Specifically applicant references figures instead of structural limitations.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

5. Claims 1-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by U.S. Patent #3,558,051 to Strickler et al.

In re claim 1, Strickler et al. discloses a device for transforming liquids into droplets with interchangeable nozzles (nozzle (48)) able to be interchangeable using threaded collar (54)) characterized in that:

The material to be transformed into droplets is pressed by compressed air (Figure 3) from at least one container (supply sources (30) & (32)) through at least one capillary in the interior of a nozzle (path through nozzle (48)) and the droplet separation is affected by an air flow passed concentrically to the capillary in the nozzle (Air Inlet (90)).

In re claim 2, Strickler et al. discloses the invention as described above including the following main components, a nozzle (nozzle (48)) and a reservoir (supply sources (30) & (32)).

In re claims 3-7, as best understood by the examiner, Strickler et al. discloses the invention as described above including the components are connected using pipes (as seen in the figures).

In re claim 8, as best understood by the examiner, Strickler et al. discloses the invention as described above including a meter tube (all tubes are metered using Valves (120) or (122)) and the components are connected to each other using pipes as seen in the figures.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

8. Claims 9-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over U.S. Patent #3,558,051 to Strickler et al.

In re claims 9-11, Strickler et al. discloses the invention as described above but fails to disclose the specifics of the droplets. However, the limitations of claims 9-11 do not provide a structural limitation, therefore Strickler et al. discloses an apparatus as claimed previously that is capable of producing the droplets as claimed.

Conclusion

9. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. U.S. Patent #RE38,281 to Tisone discloses a dispensing apparatus with similar structure. U.S. PG-Pub 2005/0056713 to Tisone et al. discloses a dispensing apparatus with similar structure. U.S. PG-Pub 2002/0113144 to Huang et al. discloses a nebulizer with similar structure. U.S. Patent #5,114,752 to Hall discloses a dispenser with similar structures. U.S. Patent #4,987,854 to Hall discloses a dispenser having similar structure.
